WEEK OF AUGUST 10, 2026

A placeholder, so this address resolves. The first real weekly report publishes Sunday at 09:00 Eastern.

TOP STORY OF THE WEEK

What goes here on Sunday

The weekly opens with a deep read on the single most consequential story across all eleven topics — 600 to 900 words of flowing prose rather than bullets. What happened, in narrative order. The background you need to see why it matters. What it connects to. Who is affected, named and specific. What it means, argued rather than asserted. And what to watch, with dates.

The daily tells you what happened. The weekly is for what it added up to.

Below that come the topic sections, five headlines each, running wider than the daily: AI, Semiconductors, New Technologies, Climate Change, Business, Startups, VC & PE, US, EU, France, World Politics. Then a profile of either a historic figure or someone currently shaping the world, alternating week to week. Then a dated calendar of what is coming — central bank meetings, elections, earnings, court dates, summits.
